

CALIFORNIAGIANT DAM OPENED

At Redding, California, the giant Shasta Dam is dedicated as the massive rotary gates of the spillway open. Three times as high as Niagara, the Dam took 12 years to build.

The full beauty of this man-made cataract is revealed at night. Second only in size to the Grand Coulee Dam, Shasta is the key to irrigation and power for California's vast Central Valley.