ROVING CAMERA REPORTS:

Jersey

It's French week in Jersey, and there's gaiety in the air as eight-thousand sightseers wait in People's Park for folk-dancing to begin.

In costumes stiff with brocade and tradition, the dancers tread to the measure of old Breton tunes.

The dances symbolize life in the simple fishing ports, set against a background of carefree toil. The hokey-cokey of its period, it brings today the charm of the past.

Valley Forge, U.S.A.

In Valley Forge, Penna, 47,000 Boy Scouts celebrate the 40th anniversary of the Scout movement in America. A tent city springs up as scouts from old and new nations - like the Philippines - join brothers from former enemy states in a movement dedicated to comradeship. Scouts from Austria bivouac near lads from Britain. Dollar shortage out Britain's numbers down to eight.

They're learning to know one another better. Someday that learning may grow.

Paris

Paris welcomes the auxilliary ketch ENGLISH ROSE, manned by fourteen Sea Rangers (or should it be She-Rangers). There's a main brace somewhere, but no sign of bracers.

No down-on-the-knees for this mother's daughter, but these belles in bell-bottoms have the right idea in practical seamanship.

They're on two weeks' holiday-with-study atleast, and not one matelet out of her depth.
