

DUBLIN HORSE SHOW

Crack riders from seven countries parade proudly in the march-past before the star event of the Royal Dublin Horse Show. With the flag of Ireland flying high, the Irish team salutes President O'Kelly who is with Mr. MacMahon.

The Apostolic Nuncio Most Reverend Dr. Felici is with General Malenky as Morf of Switzerland takes "Vega" over the 14 jumps which make the Aga Khan Trophy such a searching test for mount and rider. The Swiss were very unlucky as two horses were lamed and they withdrew after the first round.

Here's Colonel Llewellyn on "Fendenter" - when you think of one you think of the other, these days; they've done so much good jumping for England. Now it's the last round, and, losing only one point, they make England's success sure.

Count Lewenhaupt of Sweden on "Minesa-asa" had a good first round, but loses 19 points in his second round.

Captain Lombard of Switzerland ran into trouble, but remounted and finished.

The President's hopes of an Irish victory were spoiled by a poor first round, but Captain Tubridy on Lough Neagh had a good second round.

And here's Colonel Corry on "Clontibret."

For the crowd it's a disappointment that the trophy's going over the water, but there's no grudging a generous "well done" as the English team rides into line to receive the Aga Khan trophy. And with the British Ambassador Sir Gilbert Laithwaite watching, President O'Kelly makes the presentation.
