TOMMY FARR K.Os KLEIN

Climbing into the ring before his own people in his hometown, Tommy Farr takes the first step in his come-back when he meets Jan Klein. Tommy's been out of boxing 10 years, Klein is champion of Holland, and thirty thousand defy driving rain to watch as Round 1 starts. The Dutchman is four inches taller than Tommy and a stone-and-a-half heavier.

Farr is a little slower but he's boxing cleverly. That's Jack Petersen watching, as Farr tries to force the fight but finds the Dutchman's lefts in the way. Klein looks more spectacular but Tommy's getting in some good work, wearing his man down. Ouch! Klein got one in then.

Tommy's surprized everybody. He's boxing cleverly, his timing is excellent and he's breathing like a baby. Wales is sitting up as Round 6 begins.

Now Tommy's set for the kill. A left to the mouth. A right to the jaw - and Klein's down.

And he's not going to get up this time!

And that's set all Wales buzzing. Tommy has proved he's sound in wind and limb and as clever as ever. In spite of anno domini, it'll take a good 'un to beat him!
