

CHURCHILL IN DENMARK

As the guest of King Frederick, Winston Churchill keeps his promise to attend the fifth anniversary of Denmark's liberation. With Mrs. Churchill is Queen Ingrid and the King's mother.

To the 500-year-old University of Copenhagen the man whose voice meant hope to occupied Denmark goes with Mrs. Churchill to receive an honorary degree. Since the day Queen Alexandra crossed the seas as Bride of King Edward VII the ties between Britain and Denmark have been close, and in Churchill the Danes honour too the country he led, as Professor Hoeg places the gold ring on his finger, saying "Give me your hand and take mine in brotherhood!" Then the head of the University Professor Hansen proclaims him.
