

2-#FF301

50/88

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

Escorted by a Sovereign's escort of the Household Cavalry and riding in the Irish State Coach, the King, with the Queen, leaves Buckingham Palace for the State Opening of Parliament; a session of no little importance in the future of this country.

Princess Elizabeth is first to arrive at the Houses of Parliament. Included in the Government's programme is a bill to make controls permanent, and its fate may decide the future of the Government.

Through a trouble-stirred reign Their Majesties have inspired their people. With them we look confidently into the future, whatever the future may bring.