

THERE'S NO YULE LIKE AN OLD YULE

This year Father Christmas is taking the people of Ashford, Kent, for a ride. He's come early and he's collecting toys instead of bringing them. What's more he's got plenty of helpers because he's out to make sure that this Christmas no poor child in Ashford will be without a toy. In the old market place, where the people gather to sing carols, the tree reminds us of the night when high over a babe's cot in Bethlehem there hung a star.
