

COMMONWEALTH MINISTERS MEET HERE

A great assemblage of Free Nations, in size second only to the United Nations, meets in conference as Commonwealth premiers join Mr. Attlee for vital talks. There's Pandit Nehru of India and Mr. Louis St. Laurent of Canada. Mr. Bevin will keep them posted on Foreign Affairs. From New Zealand comes Mr. Holland. Sir Godfrey Huggins will speak for Southern Rhodesia and from Ceylon and Australia come Mr. Senanyake and Mr. Menzies. Each with their own vital problems, they'll work for the good of all.

ATTLEE

"We meet for three talks to see what contribution we can make for preserving the peace of the World and raising the standard of life in these very anxious times."

What are the chances of peace Mr. Nehru?

NEHRU

"There are adequate reasons for believing that peace can be maintained and the Korean war ended. On all sides there is a desire to do that and if there is a desire and will to do that, there is no reason why we should not succeed."

When men come together in that spirit the world may well have faith in their labours.
