at the Commonwealth conference, to reflect those views of the people.

I7. C.U. Nehru listening as in erviewer puts question:
Q: Mr. Nehru, we would like you to comment on the Korean situation and especially in connection with any peace we may obtain through an agreement with the Chinese government.
A: Well, I would hardly like to comment at this stage except to say.....

I8. M.S. Pan over the gathering as delegates chat informally.)

I9. M.S. Mr. Attlee leads Nehru, who points to camera, Louis St. Laurent, Mr. Senanayaké and Mr. Menzies into the room.

20. C.U. Nehru replying to question about Tibet:
'Well, it's a complicated question. I can hardly deal with it in a brief answer. As a matter of fact, things have gone very slow in Tibet the last few weeks, two or three months. Naturally it concerns us very much. We are concerned, first of all with our own security. We feel we are fairly secure in spite of these happenings. We feel that Tibetans should have autonomy of course - continue the autonomy they've had, otherwise the question is an historical question not an immediate one'.
