19. S.V. Ike speaking:

'Then we were trying to organise military forces. The great difference is we are organising them now for a different purpose. Then it was to win a war already started. It is now to preserve a peace and to prevent anyone from believing that they can destroy the free world or that there is anything to be gained for them attacking the free world.'

'.. how long have I been talking' (answer 'ten minutes') 'You know old soldiers are likely to be garrulous, and you people have to watch me a bit. I believe that there is little use in my prolonging my part in this meeting. I shall have a few minutes to answer any general questions. You can understand that there are many questions in which I shall be perfectly helpless, but if there are any general questions I shall be glad to attempt to answer, as far as I can see. I want to say, before that period begins, just one thing, which I believe very, very earnestly. The success of which I speak, has as its foundation, the heart, the heart of free peoples. I realise that there is no criteria by which we can judge the proper contributions to this purpose if your going to put it in material terms, man hours, money or anything else material. But in this great foundation, the heart, there
