PETS CORNER OPENS AT ZOO

It's good news for the kiddies - the season's opened at the Children's Zoo in Regent's Park. Come on, ducks! You're all welcome as London's most popular entertainment welcomes the first customers of 1951.

What's all this about, says the Llama, raising a supercilious eyebrow, and feeling not in the least amused.

But the wallabies are all excited.

As the crowd grows the animals really get nosy. It's no use telling the youngsters Llamas come from Peru; they're far too busy to listen. Of course, there's no danger; the animals are far too well trained for that.

I think that Llama's trying to alarm her. However, that's not my pigeon.
