TOMMY FARR KNOCKED OUT

At Perth, within walking distance of his own Tomypandy, Tommy Farr resumes his come-back campaign (which Lloyd Marshall interrupted) against Frank Bell of Barnoldswick. And the 24-year-old Yorkshire man's giving him something to think about.

There goes the bell for the second and last round. Tommy leaps in with left and right. He's got to put up a good show to wipe out that Marshall fight. But Bell fights back. He flashes a left to the body and a terrific right to the head and Farr's down!

Bell sees his chance and he's after the kill! And that's it! What Louis couldn't do Bell has done. It's the first time Farr's been knocked out in over 20 years of boxing. This must be the end of his dreams of a come-back - a staggering blow to Rhonda. Once again it's been proved: they never come back! And Yorkshire games master Frank Bell proved it.
