NEWS IN FLASHES

Training with Roy Ankarah at Treon for his fight with Danny O'Sullivan at Glasgow is Peter Keenan. Assisting at long range is Ogly Tetley, camp mascot. The British Bantam title is at stake and if the Glasgow boy fights like Ankarah did against Clayton it ought to be a grand scrap.

LAMBETH

In Lambeth, Mrs. Walter Gifford, wife of the American Ambassador, has the pleasant task of distributing toys collected by the American Legion of war veterans. Five million toys of every description were given by American children. There's a party with the distribution, and children of twelve countries benefit. It's a grand thought that brings a lot of happiness where it can do most good.

NEW YORK

Everyone knows a haunted house is full of money - if you can only find it. Experts searched this old mansion in Yonkers, New York, looking in vain for the fortune hidden there by the late Mrs. Agass Bigelow. But schoolboys Alfred and Thomas Nowack, find two boxes checkful of money (much of it in old-fashioned notes and gold coins) and hurry with their find to the Central National Bank to hand it over to the Bigelow estate; it comes to nearly 34-thousand dollars. Alfred and Thomas get a thousand dollars each. What the experts get we don't know, but their faces can be taken as red!
