PARIS

LE BOURGET AIR SHOW

Vampires streak the sky as Paris turns out for its biggest air show. It's a demonstration to show that France is regaining her place in aero design. And here's "Le Mystere," something quite new and still very high-tech.

America sends the "Sky Blazers" in their Panther jets to join in the fun. They've flown up from a carrier in the Mediterranean and here's our own Brab. making her first appearance out of Britain.

From Lakenheath come three B.36s. Paris thinks they're straight from New York but the announcer slipped up.

Over in England, a Centurion tank puts on a show for representatives of foreign nations to show that we're doing nicely with tanks.

This you've got to see - the Army way of building up for an awful let down.
