PRINCESS ELIZABETH AT "LADY OF THE LAMP" PREMIERE

Received by Earl and Countess Mountbatten, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip attend the premiere of "The Lady with a Lamp," proceeds of which go to the Royal College of Nursing Educational Fund. Because of this great cause the Princess keeps her engagement though the King lies seriously ill. Now the principals, Michael Wilding and Anna Neagle, who plays Florence Nightingale.

When Florence Nightingale took this lamp to the Crimea nearly a hundred years ago, hospital meant death for most. Out of her charity was born faith and hope, and from her teaching came our great nursing service.
