

5/72

AIR WAR STEPS UP IN KOREA

American and South African Mustangs take off for another mission to break up Red build-up plans which might lead to another big offensive if truce talks finally break down.

Feature of the Korean war these days is the appearance of vast Red fighter fleets which make these attacks difficult and dangerous; but, though generally outnumbered, American Sabres and British Meteors are outfighting the MIG's and the air offensive continues unchecked.