SETTING THE THAMES ON FIRE.

The Festival Pleasure Gardens, Battersea Park, who have so often set the Thames on Fire metaphorically, propose to do it literally at 8 p.m. on Monday, October 1st.

~~Curtains of golden rain will descend into the river along the whole~~ length of the Albert Bridge. Simultaneously, hundreds of flares, each mounted on a tiny raft, will be released from the neighbourhood of the Bridge, and will float downstream becoming extinguished off the Festival Gardens Pier.

Later that evening, there will be an augmented Fireworks Display.

25th September, 1951.
