DUKE OF WINDSOR WITH WELSH GUARDS

Making a special journey to Germany, the Duke of Windsor visits Anglesey Barracks, Wuppertal, quarters of the 1st battalion, the Welsh Guards. Formerly their Colonel-in-Chief, the Duke is the guest of Lieutenant-Colonel Davies-Scourfield.

Attending a service rugby match, the Duke meets the players. To Welshmen the Duke has a special appeal as a former Prince of Wales.

We don't know very much about this game - and neither do some of the players, by the looks of it. Maybe it's a case of "Don't look now, but somebody's watching us!"
