PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Landing onboard the "U.S.S. Des Moines" General Eisenhower and Admiral Carney join fleet manoeuvres somewhere in the Mediterranean. The carrier "Roosevelt" takes on a load of fuel from the fleet tanker "Alagash" and with a bit of a sea running, fleet exercises get under way.

As western defence chief, I'm certainly gets around - he believes in seeing for himself.

Leaving Chartwell Manor, Mr. Churchill's Kent home, Mr. Clement Davies finds himself the centre of interest. Though declining a post in the new government, the Liberal Chief tells pressmen that he and his party will support Mr. Churchill on any measure they consider is for the good of the country. With that assurance the new Premier seems content and returns to his Cabinet building.

Now comes the first Cabinet meeting. Captain Cruikshank is the new Health Minister and deputy leader of the House. Wartime expert Lord Leathers will supervise Fuel, Power and Transport ... Sir Walter Monks is Minister of Labour. Housing comes under Harold Macmillan. At this critical time Mr. Eden returns as Foreign Minister. Lord Woolton will supervise the ministries of Food and Agriculture. With him is Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, new Home Secretary with a special regard for Welsh affairs. Now Mr. Churchill's car arrives at No. 10 for the first time since the election. There's a big task ahead but the new appointments indicate that he's tackling it in his usual big way.
