Interviewer: "Lord Alexander may we welcome you to this country. I hope you had a good trip, and ask you how you feel at leaving Canada after this long term of office."
Alexander: "Thank you very much Mr. Talbot for your kind welcome. I've had a very enjoyable trip. You asked me what I felt about leaving Canada. Well, I can tell you that in the last six years I've had a most interesting and enjoyable time, and my family and I have come to look on Canada as a second home. But I returned to the United Kingdom before my term of office as Governor General expired, to take on further responsibilities, of national importance. I am happy to render what service I can for my country when that service is needed, but I feel it my duty to accept my responsibilities that I have been asked to assume. I will do all I can to help towards the preservation of peace which we all desire. By building up the strength of our armed forces, with those in association with other peaceloving nations."
Interviewer: "May we ask you sir, when you take over your new office?"
Alexander: "I actually take over from the Prime Minister on March 1st, but I still have a few days ahead of me and I shall spend those days trying to get into the picture."
