Reigning champion Bob Savitt of America opens on the centre court and Wimbledon is on. The American is much too good for Narish Kumar of India and Savitt leads by two sets as we say goodbye for a moment to look at the other courts and see if we can pick out any star.

Here talking to an official is Marie Weiss of the Argentine; next, three Australians, Macgregor, Head and Rose. Larsen of America and some of the 25,000 who've found their way in.

Is it Drobny's year this year? From South Africa comes Owen Williams. We ought to be getting back, but there's Frank Sedgman, who won the Davis Cup for Australia. Back on the centre court again, for the finish of the Savitt-Kumar match.

Savitt serves at match point. Kumar returns and Savitt drives to win his first match ... but there's a long way to go yet and funny things happen at Wimbledon.

Leighton Buzzard

It's the second Soap Box Derby and with more than ninety entries from three countries, including America, they're running it off in heats. Down goes the flap and they're rolling! And that's all they can do about it - just coast down the hill and try to steer clear of trouble!

Centre of the course is obviously the best going. Watch No. 2 this time ... They're off, and it ought to be money for jam - and what a jam!

Looks like we're the only ones laughing! Anyway, the starter's ready and away go the next lot.

Now we ought to see something, if she runs true to form.

Brighton

It's time for the start of the 8th Brighton-to-Glasgow cycling marathon. Each day's leader will carry a message for Glasgow which the Lady Mayor of Brighton now hands to Sid Aldridge ... and they're off on the first stage.

The survivors will have covered 581 miles when they reach Glasgow. Rex Butler is an Olympics possible. There's a whole heap of prizes to be won, including six pounds for the winner of each day's run and the honour of wearing the leader's jersey. There's Len Wightman and that's Peter Southart stepping on it
