

LASCELLES WEDDING

It's the wedding of the year and 6,000 gather at St. Margaret's, Westminster, in the hope of seeing the Queen, who, however, at the last moment is prevented from attending by a chill. Bridesmaids include Miss Mary Evans of Los Angeles, a friend of the bride. Miss Angela Dowding is to marry the Queen's cousin, the Honourable Gerald Lascelles.

The service over, here comes the picture you want to see - the bride and the bridegroom, who is the second son of the Princess Royal, and younger brother of the Earl of Harewood. His bride, who is the step-daughter of Sir John Fox, was at one time an actress with ENSA.

For the record, the bride is in parchment silk satin, a dress designed by her mother, Lady Fox.

Now the happy couple leave for a reception at St. James' Palace. Though the Queen was unable to attend, besides the Princess Royal (mother of the groom) royal guests included Princess Margaret, the Duchesses of Gloucester and Kent and the Duke of Edinburgh.
