

52/65NATIONAL EISTEDDFOD

Popular Cardiganshire holiday resort Aberystwyth is crowded, and (for Welshmen) for a good reason! They're all heading for the Eisteddfod! For a festival of music and song and the election of the Bard visitors come to Wales from all over the world to attend these great cultural occasions which date back for centuries.

Now come the Druids and the Bards. A big disappointment is the news that the picturesque rites must be transferred indoors.

The way they're streaming in to the Eisteddfod you'd think there'd be nobody left in Aberystwyth. And you wouldn't be far wrong!

But back to the Eisteddfod to hear the Londen Welsh choir.

Now the procession assembles for the crowning of the Bard, soon to be announced. But there was a sensation when the adjudicators decided none of the twenty-one entrants was worthy of the Poem crown, and no Bard to chair. Here is the Arch-Druid, whom the Gorsedd decided shall continue in office for another year. Now we leave the last word with the Londen Welsh choir.
