

REGAL OPENS

Despite the pouring rain, hundreds of people have come to the Regal Cinema, Harlow Newtown, for tonight is a very special occasion. This is the opening of the Regal, the first theatre to be built in England since the war, and two top stars are coming to bring personal good wishes from all in the film-world.

Yes, the weather could have been kinder - but it would have taken more than a shower of rain to keep Harlow's film fans away for this night of nights.

Quite a crowd of local dignitaries are already filling in to take their seats. But here come the people who are going to stretch every neck in the crowd outside. Yes - Diane Hart and Guy Middleton.

Mr. Gilbert Finlay, Harlow's local M.P. and Mr. Basil Fortescue greet the stars as they enter the new cinema.

Mrs. Blaber, wife of the cinema manager, greets the "Happy Go Lovely" girl, Diane Hart, by saying it with flowers.

The first programme to be screened at the Regal includes the Battle of Britain film "Angels One-Dive," and "Here's to the Memory," a scrapbook picture of fifty years of British life. Now the opening ceremony is over and Guy Middleton comes down into the audience to greet his fans.

Diane Hart gets a great welcome from the audience as she makes her way to the stage. She's just finished making a film called "Father's Doing Fine" - looks like Diane's doing all right with her admirers too. Up on the stage, she reads a telegram wishing the Regal good luck in the future. It is from Her Majesty the Queen.

Despite the pouring rain, hundreds of people have come to the Regal Cinema, Harlow Newtown, for tonight is a very special occasion. This is the opening of the Regal, the first theatre to be built in England since the war, and two top stars are coming to bring personal good-wishes from all in the film-world.

UP

SC.5.

Yes, the weather could have been kinder - but it would have taken more than a shower of rain to ~~take~~ Harlow's film-fans away for this night of nights.

UP

SC.9.

Quite a crowd of local dignitaries are already filing in to take their seats. But here come the people who are going to stretch every neck in the crowd outside. Yes - Diane Hart and the most charming rake of them all, Guy Middleton. Mr. Gilbert Finlay, Harlow's local M.P. and Mr. Basil Fortescue greet the stars as they enter the Regal.

UP

SC.14.

Mrs Blaber, wife of the cinema manager, greets the Happy Go Lovely girl, Diane Hart, by saying it with flowers.

UP

SC.17.

The first programme to be screened at the Regal includes the Battle of Britain film, "Angels One Five" and "Here's to the Memory", a scrapbook picture of fifty years of British life. Now the opening ceremony is over and Guy Middleton comes down into the audience to greet his fans.

UP

SC.22.

Diane Hart gets a great welcome from the audience as she makes her way to the stage. She's just finished making a film called "Father's Doing Fine" - looks like Diane's doing all right with her fans too. Up on the stage, she reads a telegram wishing the Regal good luck in the future. It is from Her Majesty the Queen.