

52/80

SPECIAL FOR SCOTLAND

QUEEN MOTHER AT INVERNESS

The Lord Provost greets the Queen Mother on her arrival at Achnacarry, Invernesshire. Before she unveils a statue to commemorate Commandos who were killed in the war, she chats with ex-commandos and relatives of the fallen.

The memorial, which the Queen Mother now unveils, stands in the barren country where many Commandos were trained for battle. Scotland's tribute will be a reminder to all who pass before it of their great, unselfish sacrifices.