

ROYALTY IN THE NEWS

Here in England the Duke of Windsor takes time off for golf. But don't ask me what sort of weather he's expecting.

A good drive too! And if you were a pressman, wouldn't you want a picture of that novel waterproof and that deerstalker's hat, too!

The Honourable B.A. Davison has better weather - and his royal partner watches in comfort.

Now stripped down for action on the greens. Lovely shot, lovely -- Oh! what the Duke is saying now is anybody's guess. Nevertheless, that score card's good enough to sign.

Singapore

At Singapore, it's a royal occasion too, with better weather and greater pageantry. The Duchess of Kent and her son, the Duke of Kent, are greeted on arrival by the Governor of Singapore and the Commissioner-General.

As Her Royal Highness inspects the Guard of Honour, she's watched by her son and the Commissioner-General.

It's been a warm City Hall welcome. Now, the formal presentation by the President of the City Council of a special casket, containing a scroll and a sealed copy of the Council's Resolution. But as I said - it was a warm reception!
