

JAMAICA GREETES CHURCHILL

Mr. Churchill arrives at Montego Bay Airport, just outside Kingston, capital of Jamaica. Many distinguished islanders are here to greet him and wish him well during his holiday - among them, Governor Sir Hugh Foot, the island's administrator. President Truman lent Mr. Churchill his own private aircraft to fly him here from Washington. Now the Premier inspects the Guard of Honour.

Jamaica is making sure that Mr. Churchill will have a plentiful supply of cigars during his stay - naturally they're all marked "Made in Jamaica."

Before journeying to the home of his friend, Sir Harold Mitchell (where he will spend his holiday), Mr. Churchill makes a triumphal tour of Kingston and receives a warm welcome from the capital.
