REFUGEES FROM EAST GERMANY

The endless stream of refugees from Soviet-occupied East Germany. Now streaming in West-Berlin, reached a peak of 3000 a day. They Await identification and screening formalities at the refugee offices prior to evacuation by airlift to various parts of West-Germany.

Our cameraman interviewed a number of refugees. They belong to all classes, but primarily include farmers, gardeners, foresters as well as apprentices and other trained technical trades. The exodus continues.

Filmstar James Mason presented an American donation of 225 000 Dollar to Mayor Ernst Reuter for the support of the refugees. The "International Rescue Committee" hopes to reach the million dollar target before Reuter arrives in New York next week.
