

KOREA

EX-P.O. Ws VILLAGE

This is Freedom Village, built for prisoners released by the North Koreans under the new exchange agreement. British, American and other badly wounded United Nations troops will soon be brought here from Communist camps before repatriation here.

The task of building Freedom Village included a large emergency hospital, to be fitted with the finest equipment. The new camp, which stands where once battle was fought, prepares to welcome the returning prisoners, and to give them new clothes, food, medical treatment - and most important of all, their freedom.