

BERLIN'S BEAR CUBS

At the Berlin zoo, four little bear cubs, barely six weeks old, are under their mother's watchful eye as they make their first appearance in public. Up to now they've been living in the cave where they were born, so (now they're outside in the sun) they're stepping out to see what life's all about.

Even if Mother Bear doesn't approve, what's the betting her four youngsters become the top stars at the Berlin Zoo within a very few weeks.
