BARUCH -- Aarseth

The scarred slopes of Korea echo to a strange new sound as U. N. troops demolish bunkers, salvaging heavy timbers and trucking them to the rear.

Muzzled tanks ---

Somber GIs wondering what next.

The Navy's Task Force seventy-seven folds its fighting wings off the Korean coast and flight decks ~~hunting~~ become sea-going "sandlots."

Ships are kept in fighting trim, while crewmen take a breather from the shores of war.

Decks that once launched air strikes at the Reds becomes a volleyball court for crew.

At Britannia Camp in Korea, Operation Big Switch goes on as a jubilant British troops reach the end of the long, tortuous road to freedom.

KOREA -- 2

At processing tents, the terror of their ordeal inx gives way to anxious questions of home and loved ones from whom they have been out off.

Eating good food, the troops remember what freedom is really like.
