BARUCH -- Aarseth

President Eisenhower "roughs it" for a week on his Colorado vacation -- two hours by car from his Denver White House -- high in the rugged mountain country at Byers Peak Ranch.

Holding open house for reporters and photographers, Ike chats about cooking, wild flowers, country living and his favorite sport -- fishing -- with illustrated with some experimental casts with his fly rod.

The President is talking about his catches, but it's easy to see that nearby stream is beckoning.
