NEWS FLASHES.

The Road-Rail Bus

A new sort of vehicle that's quickly become an everyday sight in the country around Passau in Bavaria, is the road-railbus. It looks a bit like one of the Diesel trains used by British railways - but wait until you see what it can do when there aren't any more railway lines to run on. In a matter of seconds the bogys are taken away - and a set of tyres is lowered to take their place. All aboard? Right, let's go on with the journey. Next time you're on holiday among the frauleins and want to go off the rails - well, here's the answer.

The Vickers Valiant

The Vickers Valiant Mark 2 is one of the many top-secret bombers making a fleeting appearance at the Farnborough Air Show. Bigger than the Valiant One, this sleek, speedy atom-bomber may soon reveal some of its capabilities, for it's been entered for the forthcoming 12,000 mile New Zealand air race. It'll only be stopping twice on the way, so there's no doubt its range must be around the 5,000 mile mark. The cruising speed is believed to be about 600 miles an hour. But Vickers aren't telling - they just say "wait and see"

The Canadian Dog.

If you ever happen to be in Kitchener, Ontario, and this happens - well it won't be the one you had for the road, so don't worry. Want to know how it's done. Well show you. There's really two of them; young Glenn Stewart and Bonnie. Local townspeople still stand and stare when Glenn and his canine hitch-hiker drive by. Obviously, Bonnie, who's only two years old, has already formed his own idea of a dog's life. Glenn's got a back-seat driver who can bite as well as bark.
