ROYAL 'PLANE READY.

One of B.O.A.C.'s most experienced pilots, Captain Anthony Loraine will fly the Queen and Prince Philip to Jamaica, the first stage of their Empire Tour. Captain Callander is second in command of the hand-picked crew of the Stratocruiser Canopus - the same aircraft in which the royal couple flew to Canada two years ago.

Attending the Queen will be Steward Raymond Dunkley from West Wickham, Steward John Harvis, a Londoner, Steward Michael Heath, and the only women member of the crew, Stewardess Juanita Rolandi. Miss Rolandi, whose home is in London, joined an airline seven years ago. Long experience and matchless skill will guide Her Majesty to her lands across the seas.
