

COHEN Vs TULI.

At Belle Vue, Manchester, Zulu Tuli meets Frenchman Robert Cohen in a ten-round contest. The Fight, which is promoted by the New Northern Sportsmen's Carity Fund of Manchester, is soon living up to its title as the "fight of the year". Cohen, the number one contender for for world bantam title, soon faces a barrage from the miniature brown bomber, but hands back as good as he gets.

Cohen, (who's two pounds fourteen ounces heavier than Tuli) catches the Zulu boy off guard and he stumbles across the ring to hit the canvas. But it's only for a moment. Tough, tireless, with a heart like a lion Tuli is still undefeated as number one contender for the world flyweight title, and there's no doubt the wily Frenchman is giving him his hardest fight to date.

As they come together for the next round, Tuli changes his tactics and pokes out the traditional English left. But the Frenchman's left, (slamming into Tuli), puts the South African down again!

In a flurry of blows, Cohen cracks Tuli in the stomach, and a right to the jaw that lays him low. But once again he's up almost at once. You can't keep this little man down as easily as that. Cohen staggers him with ferocious hooks, but Tuli hangs on grimly.

And he's down again! - that's the sixth tumble he takes. This time he has a short breather, ready to give the last few moments everything he's got. For sheer courage, undaunted spirit and real honest-to-goodness hard fighting it's been the scrap of the year all right.

And Cohen is the winner! Robert Cohen seems all set now for a crack at Australia's Jimmy Carruthers, while Tuli has high hopes of a fight with the Japanese world Flyweight champ.
