RUGBY LEAGUE FINAL.

Halifax, in striped jerseys, kick off against Warrington to get the ball rolling in the Rugby League Cup Final at Wembley. Both sides are making their fourth appearance on this hallowed ground. Halifax won two of their finals, and Warrington one. In the opening minutes, Halifax have most of the play.

Dai Bevan keeps Halifax on the attack but Bryan Bevan, a Warrington man stops him. For Rugby Union fans, here's an example of this other branch of their sport - quick back-heeling without surru -downs.

Halifax keep up the pressure during most of the first half. Kiefty, Peter Todd and Tommy Lynch team up, but Arnold Stephens brings Lynch down. First scoring chance of the day comes when Warrington's Harry Bath infringes the rules and the referee order a penalty kick to Halifax.

Tysaul Griffiths takes the kick from about forty yards back, and over it goes to give Halifax a two-nil lead in front in the first fifteen minutes. Hardly have their fans stopped their applause than Halifax are off again.

After twenty two minutes play, another opportunity comes Halifax's way. The ref awards them a second penalty - again Griffiths takes it.

Four-nil is the half-time score. When play resumes, its Warrington who take up the ougels and probe the Halifax defence for an opening.

Brian Bevan gets it for Warrington and makes a brilliant dash. He flicks the ball out, but to no avail. Nevertheless, thanks to Bevan's efforts, Warrington have made a lot of ground. Then an infringement by Halifax gives them a penalty - their chance has come. Bath does the kicking.

The Halifax three-quarter take a hand to try and increase their lead.

Daniels passes to Griffiths, but he doesn't get far. With only fifteen minutes to go, Warrington are awarded yet another penalty. Bath's magnificent kick makes it four all - Halifax and Warrington meet again.
