

100222C

54/76.

BERLIN POLICE ON PARADE:

Hundreds of Berlin policemen take part in their annual display in the giant Olympic Stadium. Although their drill and bearing are impeccable, they present a rather different scene to those which used to be staged here. For it was in this stadium that Hitler and his henchmen would review Nazi storm-troopers before the war.

Not a pyramid club, but members of the Berlin flying squad adding their contribution to the show. The 100,000 crowd sees a superb, precision display of a traditional German drill.

Berliners, who have a deep-rooted love of spectacular mass-parades sum up the show in a single word - wunderbar!