WORST FIRE IN HOLLAND SINCE THE WAR
DAMAGE 10 MILLION GUILDERS

An enormous fire destroyed two store-houses at Zaandam, called "Czaar Peter" and "Nederland".

Firebrigades from 5 cities worked all day to stop the raging fire. The store-houses were fully packed with tons of cacao-nuts and-butter, wooden doors, paint, oils and fats.

It is believed that the fire was caused by imprudence. The night before people worked in the store-houses who possibly smoked.

During the fire a stream of yellow cacao-butter flew into the river Zaan. About 100.000 cubic feet of storage-accomodation was definitively lost. The total damage is estimated 10 million guilders.

It is the worst fire-disaster in The Netherlands since the end of the war.
