

JEWISH LADS' DIAMOND JUBILEE:

Hundreds of members of the Jewish Lads' Brigade parade in Seymour Hall, London, to celebrate the diamond jubilee of the Brigade's foundation. Just sixty years ago a certain Colonel Golsmid attended a display in Cardiff by the newly-formed Boy's Brigade. Almost immediately he founded a similar Brigade for Jewish lads. Lord de L'Isle and Dudley V.C. is the Guest of Honour at the jubilee display, which shows some of the activities of its present members. Another distinguished guest is Major Cohen, V.C.

For sixty years the objects of the Brigade have been to train its members in Loyalty, honour, discipline and self-respect, that they shall become useful citizens, and a credit to their country and community.
