

b-028201

NAVY JET

BARUCH-Fitzgerald

X The world's first multi-jet powered flying boat is unveiled by the Navy near Baltimore where it was built secretly. It can fly more than six hundred miles an hour -- has swept-back, drooping wings, and a big T-shape tail three stories high -- to keep clear of heavy seas. The Martin Seamaster is built for mine-laying and other missions. A potent weapon, says the Navy, against submarines.