

WOLVES V. ARSENAL.

Arsenal, in white shorts, kick off against Wolverhampton Wanderers at Molineux Grounds. The Gunners take it smoothly upfield. Bert Williams, currently on the top of his form, copes comfortably and sets the Wolves away.

Smith, the Wolves left-winger, cuts in. On goes the ball to Swinbourne who's showing the form that, many say, makes him worthy of a place in England's team. Kelsey tips it over, and Arsenal escape trouble. But only for the moment. Swinbourne's back.

Wally Barnes sets the Arsenal machine in motion. Now Milton has it.

Lawton heads, but Williams punches clear. Two brilliant efforts by two superlative footballers. Half-time, and there's still no score. First to get things moving are the Gunners. Good stuff this, a lot better form than they've been showing so far.

And Wolves are off again. Darting into the fray, Swinbourne takes the ball!

A good save. Kelsey's clearance sends Arsenal back into the Wolves half, but their raid's halted when Billy Wright concedes a corner. Right-winger Milton is to take it.

Williams is charged and tempers get a trifle frayed until the ref cools things off. That's the only real upset in a good, clean match.

Lawton, in terrific form, sends Holton away. But the move Lawton started is quickly smashed by brisk Wolves tackling.

Smith collects for Wolves. A centre finds Wilshaw. His shot beats Kelsey, but Evans heads it out from under the bar. A brilliant save.

Leslie Smith takes the corner for Wolves, and Swinbourne heads it home. And that's the only goal of the game. Wolverhampton by one goal to nil, knock Arsenal out of the cup and move on to round five.
