ATTOLICO-HAMBLEDEN NUPTIALS
*****

In the church of Santa Maria in Domnica, in Rome, was celebrated, on February 21st in the afternoon, the wedding of Lord William Herbert Smith of Hambleton with Countess Maria Carmela Attelice.

Best men for the bridegroom were: Lord Herbert Sidney and Sir James Smith; for the bride: her uncle Luca Pietromarchi and her brother Bartelemeo.

300 guests took their place in the church, adorned with white carnations. Among them were: the English Ambassador by the Holy See, several Members of the Diplomatic Body and of roman aristocracy.

The bride entered the church at the arm of her grand-father Count Bartelemeo Attelice, while the bridegroom, of anglican religion, waited for her ~~at~~ at a side of the main altar. The parson of the church, Don Mario di Sera, officiated the ceremony and at the end of the rite addressed to the couple some wishing words.
