

NEW POTATO HARVESTER:

A new potato harvester - a British machine- rescues a Lincolnshire crop at the rate of four acres an hour. Throughout the winter these potatoes had been in the ground on the Belvoir Castle Estate, and regarded as lost.

From every acre, five tons of good potatoes are quickly recovered by this revolutionary machine. No other harvester, it is claimed, could have saved the crop.

Workable under any soil conditions, the new harvester will be a boon to British farmers.
