

WOODCUTTERS:

He wouldn't cut his beard but there are plenty of woodcutters who would at the annual woodcutters contests at Innsbruck, Austria. From all over the country, the strongest men - and the most skilful - have come to celebrate the traditional "Day of the Woods".

Some can't see the wood for the tresses - but it's time for the achtung!

If looks easy? You should see what the woodcutter saw when the woodcutter's saw saw another woodcutter's saw sawing faster!

Now for the axe contests - and no more tongue-twisters. This is serious stuff - look at that edge!

The opposite to inflation! Never ask a woodcutter to split a shilling for you - he'll do it this way!
