

FRENCH LOSE NAVAL BASE.

Indo-China - still the scene of war and unrest. At the important naval base of Haiphong natives of the town demonstrate against the French police who are covering the evacuation of French troops from the area.

The evacuation is still not complete as Viet Minh rebel supporters hoist their flag to greet communist led viet minh troops into the town.

In the face of the Red take-over the withdrawing French troops honour the dead of the Tonkin campaigns at their cemetery in the town - and take with them the body of one unknown French soldier - to lay in the Paris Unknown Warrior's shrine.
