

WORLD TWINS CONVENTION.

At the tiny village of Oirschot in Holland, more than 300 twins from all over the world meet for the biggest-ever twins convention. Holland's own tweelingen (Dutch for twins) are Johan and Anton Lippman.

Telling t'other from which is a job for everyone except the twins themselves - each knows he's the one the other isn't. What a nice way to see double!

From now on to be a yearly event, the tweelingen congress highlights the festivities with a prize-giving at the village hall. Even for the twins who look least alike there's a consolation prize - hugh leaves of currant bread!

More prizes for the people who - like it or lump it! find they're always reminding people of someone else!
