WOLVES LEAVE FOR MOSCOW

Leaving London Airport for Moscow, to meet crack Russian teams Spartak and Dynamo, eleven members of the Wolverhampton Wanderers team look fighting fit and ready for anything the Russian footballers have up their sleeves. Skipper Billy Wright leads them.

Manager Stan Cullis - in the light suit - flies with this first contingent of the Wolves team. And there's centre forward Roy Swinburne.

If they don't have good luck, it won't be the airlines fault. Chicken was served for lunch, and Stan Cullis commented: "It's the first time I know a chicken had eleven wishbones."

Handle them carefully, pilot. These eleven boys are insured for nearly a quarter of a million pounds!
