FIRE

Weist- Fitzgerald

Fire rages out of control in the huge Standard Oil Company refinery at Whiting, Indiana.

Mountains of smoke roll overhead after an explosion in a gasoline unit shook the little town and sent hundreds fleeing for their lives

Hour after hour the flames roar on as fuel tank after tank exploded in searing fury.

Firemen from four cities are helpless for twenty four hours, and the fire burns on for two days. Two persons are dead and damage is more than ten million dollars.
