

2-152001

55/76.

POLICE STAGE "SAFETY LAST" SHOW.

London policemen put on their own show, in front of the Mayor of Westminster and a big audience in Kensington Gardens. First of all, a reminder that it always takes longer than you think to brake.

The bobbies introduce a few old friends. The chap who thinks the street's a playing field...

Any guilty consciences here? Now the chap who opens doors without looking...

Just suppose that road had been greasy!

We all know this one!

And the chap who steps off without warning, and insists on his rights.

Famous last words: "It was my right of way"!