MONSTER LORRYLOAD.

One of the biggest loads ever carried by road in Britain edges its way through London en route for the South of England. It's an all-welded pressure vessel made in Gainsborough. There's over 100 tons of it, and it's over 100 feet long - got stuck behind that on Friday and bang goes your weekend.

Mind that lampost!

One tractor pulls while another pushes - so for once a back seat driver really is necessary. But the beat seat's so far away the two drivers have to keep in touch by radio-telephone.

All the way from Lincolnshire at two miles an hour - at least they're not likely to get pinched for speeding. Here's hoping it satisfies the customer - it would be a pity to have to send it back for alterations!
